EXCITING INCIDENTS MARK VICTORY OF DETROIT TEAM OVER ST. LOUIS.

Umpire O'Laughlin Orders Heidrick and Anderson From Field for Remonstrating With Him Over His Decisions - Other Players Displeased and Rush on Diamond - Hemphill Warned and Returns to Bench - Score Is 5 to I in Favor of Detroit.

In a game replete with incidents of a stirring character, the Detroit Tigers defeated the Browns yesterday by a score of

Anderson and Heidrick of the Browns were ordered from the field by Umpire "Silk" O'Laughlin for remonstrating with him over his decisions which declared the Anderson was declared out on the third strike in the seventh inning, and his protest caused his expulsion.

A moment later Heldrick tried to steal home and was declared out. He expressed his displeasure vigorously and was also ordered out of the game. Sudhoff went to center in Heidrick's place. Sugden took Anderson's place at first and Kahoe relieved Joe behind the bat.

A remark made by Hemphill, when he gruck out in the same inning, almost resulted in his being ordered to the clubhouse.

suited in his being ordered to the clubhouse.

The excitement started in the seventh inning, when the Browns looked due for a batting raily. Heidrick, the first man up, knocked a triple. Hemphill went to bat.
Mullen was not the least bit excited over Heidrick's long hit, but settled down and fanned Hemphill.

TROUBLE IS RENEWED.

TROUBLE IS RENEWED.

Hemphill had trouble with O'Laughlin at Cleveland Friday, and as a result was ordered out of the game. Feeling sore over the umpire's act in putting him out of the game at Cleveland, he turned and made some remark to the official, but was told to hie himself to the bench and say no more. He obeyed orders.

Anderson, the next man up, was the cause of an exciting scene. With two strikes called on him, the big first baseman reached partly over the plate for one of Mullen's out drops. O'Laughlin called the third strike.

Anderson threw his bat on the ground, and taking hold of O'Laughlin shook him. Other players interfered and separated the player and the umpire.

When Anderson desisted, O'Laughlin ordered him out of the game.

The players swarmed around O'Laughlin, and for awhile it looked as if trouble night result. O'Laughlin was unmoved, and they soon returned to the bench.

and they soon returned to the bench.

SECOND ACT OF FARCE.

The climax of the game came a few minutes after the Anderson scene. Mullen had the ball in his hand and had started to deliver it, when Heldrick darted for the plate. With a rush and a tear he swept onward to his apparent destruction.

Catcher McAllister had the ball in his hands and was waiting for Heldrick. This did not in the least deter J. Emmett, who was rushing toward the plate like a shooting strow. When within fitteen feet of the pan he hit the dirt. McAllister reached for him with the sphere and O'Laughlin declared him out.

As soon as he regained his feet Emmett rolled up his sleeves and rushed at O'Laughlin. He was stopped by a player, and then remonstrated, declaring the catcher had not touched him.

O'Laughlin ordered him to the clubhouse. The players again surrounded O'Laughlin, who pulled out his watch and threatened to forfeit the game to the Tigers if they did not take to the field.

After the game O'Laughlin refused to discuss the action of Heidrick and Anderson, but said he would forward his report to Ban B, Johnson, president of the American League. The decision on Anderson was very close.

Aside from these exciting incidents, the game was a pretty affair. The Tigers had was very close.

Aside from these exciting incidents, the game was a pretty affair. The Tigers had cut out a very fast pace for the Browns, but the latter hung on.

MULLEN'S GREAT PITCHING.

MULLEN'S GREAT PITCHING.

Mullen, who was on the rubber for the Tigers, had the Browns completely up timber. As the game proceeded he kept them going up higher, and when Kahoe. We last man to but for the locals, went out the Browns were away up in the air.

In the third inning Mullen commenced to apply the high pressure to his steam and he struck out two Brownies. One went down on strikes in the fourth. One more obliged over the three-strike route in the fifth. Mullen mowed down two more by strikes in the sixth, seventh and ninth innings.

Innings.

Perhaps his most masterly bit of the pitching art was displayed in the seventh inning, when, after Heldrick had tripled and no one out, he fanned the next two men up. Wallace was at the bat and had two strikes when Heidrick tried for the booby prize, which is awarded to those who try to steal home while the pitcher holds the ball. Burkett, Hemphill and Slevers fanned twice.

HEIDRICK'S GOOD BATTING. To the time Heidrick was put out of the game, he played very fast, getting three hits, including a triple and a double. Anderson played a good game at first until he was ordered to the clubhouse. He made several stops that looked as if they were tagged through for the fence back of first. In the second inning Crawford pushed one of Siever's curves against the clubhouse, but was caught at the plate when Carr pushed a grasser along the first-base line.

Inc.

The Detroit aggregation had very little trouble finding the slants of Sievers, and they batted him to every corner of the lot. They secured thirteen hits, including five doubles and a triple, and it was only the fast fielding of the Browns that kept the

HOW THE RUNS WERE MADE,

Detroit scored one in the first inning. Barrett doubled and went to third on Smith's bunt. Smith was caught in a run up between first and second. Crawford tripled, Barrett scoring. Crawford was caught at the plate on Carr's grasser to Anderson. Elberfeld walked.

The Tigers scored two more in the eighth. Carr doubled. Elberfeld flew to Friel. Geesler doubled, scoring Carr. Yeager singled, scoring Gessler. McAllister walked, but was forced at second by Mullen's grasser to Wallace. was forced at second by Mullen's granser to Waliace.

The Browns scored one in their half of the eighth. Wallace flew to Carr. McCormick fouled to McAllister, Friel safe on Yeager's error. He took second on a wild pitch and scored on Sugden's single.

Detroit scored their final two in the ninth inning. Barrett walked. Smith was out to Sugden on sacrifice hit. Crawford died, pitcher to first. Carr singled, scoring Barrett. Elberfeld doubled, scoring Carr. The score:
